YINKA SHONIBARE INSPIRED BY HK HOMELESS

25 NOV 2013

British-Nigerian artist Yinka Shonibare has unveiled a new show informed by Hong Kong's colonial history and its homeless people. Titled "Dreaming Rich," the exhibition includes a large sculpture, works on paper, and an installation of Shonibare's toy paintings at Pearl Lam Galleries Hong Kong through January 9. The artist continues his exploration of post-colonialism and commodity culture, but this time takes cues from the city's unique colonial history.
